

Algiers Picayune

ART IN MOTION

Artwork by Abby Hunter, junior at Thomas Jefferson High School.

Seven students from Thomas Jefferson, Academy of Our Lady and Fisher high schools are finalists in the Rau For Art scholarship program. Their works will be exhibited at the Royal Gallery at M.S. Rau Antiques, 630 Royal Street, New Orleans, through April 1. Three winners will be chosen, and the results will be announced at a luncheon at the M.S. Rau galleries on April 2.

Finalists, more art Page 3

Artwork by Allison Carubba, senior at Academy of Our Lady.

ART FOCUS

Artwork by junior Victoria McLean from Academy of Our Lady.

More than 100 high school students from the New Orleans area submitted works to the contest, which has been narrowed down to the top 10 finalists. The works are on exhibit at the Royal Gallery at M.S. Rau Antiques, 630 Royal St., New Orleans, through April 1. Three winners will be chosen and results announced at a luncheon at the M. S. Rau galleries on April 2. First prize will win $7,500 with an option of a study abroad program in Italy and $500 to the winner's high school art department; second prize, $3,000 college scholarship; and third prize, $1,500 college scholarship. Finalists are senior Allison Carubba and junior Victoria McLean from Academy of Our Lady; sophomore Lauren Timphony from Archbishop Chapelle High School; junior Desiree Camus and senior Madison Bourgeois from Fisher High School; junior Aiden Garrity, junior Stephanie Sullivan and junior Abby Hunter from Thomas Jefferson High School; senior Emily Cuenca from Mount Carmel Academy; and senior Vanna Robin from Chalmette High School.